come, come, whoever you are. wanderer, worshiper, lover of leaving. it doesn't matter. ours is not a caravan of despair.
come, even if you have broken your vows a thousand times.

"love will find you" cunningham/hermanson you may be watching from a safe distance you may be so close you can taste the blood you may have headed for higher ground you may be drowning in the flood no matter what you do love will find you you may have lost what little faith you had you may believe with all your heart you may be pulling yourself together again you may be falling apart

no matter what you do love will find you

one of you sees that love's a long lost friend one of you can't recognize her face one of you runs to her with open arms one of you falls down in disgrace you may see a million different gateways home you may think there's only one way through you may be waiting for the kingdom to come you may believe it's in you

no matter what you do love will find you love will find you love will find you passing the peace

"so are you to me"

as the music at the banquet as the wine before the meal as the firelight in the night
so are you to me

as the ruby in the setting as the fruit upon the tree as the wind blows over the plains
so are you to me

as the wind blows over the plains
so are you to me
so are you to me

kairos moment

(the ancient greeks had two words for time, chronos and kairos. kairos is "a time in between" – sacred time.)

Mark 4: 3-5; 5: 1-20 (adapted from CEB) on that day, when evening had come, jesus said to his disciples, "let us go across to the other side." and they came to the other side of the lake, to the region of the gerasenes.

as soon as jesus got out of the boat, a man possessed by an evil spirit came out of the tombs. this man had been secured many times with leg irons and chains, but he broke the chains and no one was tough enough to control him. night and day in the tombs and the hills, he would howl and cut himself with stones. when he saw jesus, he ran and knelt before him, shouting, "what have you to do with me, jesus, son of the most high god?"

jesus asked him, "what is your name?" he responded, "legion is my name, because we are many." they pleaded with jesus not to send them out of that region.

now, a large herd of pigs was feeding on the hillside. so, the demons begged jesus, "let us go into the pigs!" jesus gave them permission, so the unclean spirits left the man and went into the pigs. then the herd of about two thousand pigs rushed down the cliff into the lake and drowned. those who tended the pigs ran away and told the story in the city and in the countryside. people came to jesus and saw the man who used to be demon-possessed, sitting there fully dressed and completely sane, and they were filled with fear. those who had actually seen what had happened to the demon-possessed man told the others about the pigs. then they pleaded with jesus to leave their region.

while he was climbing into the boat, the one who had been demon-possessed begged jesus to let him follow as one of his disciples. but jesus said "no. go home to your own people, and tell them what the lord has done for you and shown you mercy." the man went away and began to proclaim in all the decopolis all that jesus had done for him, and everyone was amazed.

some thoughts for the journey aging is not uncomplicated. creativity is an extraordinary help against destructive demons. - ingmar bergman deep down, i have this intuition that a lot of creative people have, that their demons are also what make them create. - david byrne it doesn't interest me what you do for a living. i want to know what you ache for and if you dare to dream of meeting your heart's longing. - oriah mountain dreamer maybe that's all demons ever are. people like us, doing things without even knowing what we're doing. - orson scott card

it could be that i am a tiny piece of god, and each of you too, or at least of his intention and his hope... for each of us, there is the daily life. let us live it, gesture by gesture. - mary oliver
