“be thou my vision” trad. irish hymn
lyrics by thomas mikelson

wake, now, my senses, and hear the earth call;
feel the deep power of being in all;
keep, with the web of creation your vow, giving, receiving as love shows us how.

wake, now my reason, reach out to the new;
join with each pilgrim who quests for the true honor the beauty and wisdom of time;
suffer thy limit, and praise the sublime.

wake, now, compassion, give heed to the cry;
voices of suffering fill the wide sky;
take as your neighbor both stranger and friend,
praying and striving their hardship to end.

kairos moment

rev. mary ellen barrow

(the ancient greeks had two words for time, chronos and kairos. kairos is “a time in between” – sacred time)

opening our hearts

mark 8:22-25

and they came to bethsaida. and some people brought to him a blind man and begged him to touch him. and he took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the village, and when he had spit on his eyes and laid his hands on him, he asked him, “do you see anything?” and he looked up and said, “i see people, but they look like trees, walking.” then jesus said his hands on his eyes again; and he opened his eyes, his sight was restored, and he saw everything clearly.

proverbs 18:17

any story sounds true until someone tells the other side and sets the record straight.
