Tomorrow's Child by © Glenn C. Thomas 1996

Without a name; an unseen face
and knowing not your time nor place,
Tomorrow's Child, though yet unborn
I met you first last Tuesday morn.
A wise friend introduced us two,
and through his shining point of view
I saw a day that you would see;
a day for you, but not for me.
Knowing you has changed my thinking
for I never had an inkling
That perhaps the things I do might someday, somehow, threaten you.

Tomorrow's Child, my daughter/son
I'm afraid I've just begun
To think of you and of your good, though always having known I should.
Begin I will to weigh the cost of what I squander; what is lost
If ever I forget that you will someday come to live here too.

Thoughts for Future Reflection

"We are the prophecy of the ancestors. We are the evidence of their dreaming."

— Alexis Pauline Gumbs

"History cannot be un-lived, but if faced with courage, need not be lived again."

— Layli Long Soldier

"We heal not just for ourselves, but for our ancestors and for those yet to come."

— Resmaa Menakem

"The world will be inherited by those who let go of the illusion of separation."

— Rev. angel Kyodo williams

"We are the wildest dreams of those who never could have imagined us."

—Aja Monet

Core Practice: Mindfulness Meditation

The Buddhist Metta (Lovingkindness) Prayer, Adapted

My heart fills with loving kindness. I love myself. May I be happy. May I be well. May I be peaceful. May I be free.

If I have hurt anyone, knowingly or unknowingly in thought, word or deed, I ask for their forgiveness.

If anyone has hurt me, knowingly or unknowingly in thought, word or deed, I extend my forgiveness.

May all beings everywhere, whether near or far, whether known to me or unknown, be happy. May they be well. May they be peaceful. May they be free.
