After Feeling Stuck for So Long by Rosemerry Trommer

If Hawaii can move closer to Alaska every year,
and it does,
those sunny beaches drifting closer
to aqua blue glaciers,
then perhaps, I, too,
can move closer to you in my thoughts,
though the gap between us seems wider than the vast Pacific.

At a rate of 7.5 centimeters a year,
there's little chance of my black sand and your white peaks
ever sharing a shore.

For now it is enough to trust
that great unseen forces might help shift us toward each other.
Even now I am feeling it, the possibility.

Thoughts for Future Reflection

"The universe is an infinite opportunity creation machine. In every instant, the possibility of greater possibility is programmed into the nature of things. Love creates the conduit through which new possibility enters our experience, and lovelessness keeps it at bay."

✧ Marianne Williamson ✧

"The eternal void is filled with infinite possibilities."

✧ Lao Tzu ✧

"When you become comfortable with uncertainty, infinite possibilities open up in your life."

✧ Eckhart Tolle ✧

"We are the opening verse of the opening page of the chapter of endless possibilities."

✧ Rudyard Kipling ✧

First Street Methodist Mission - The August Mission

Focus is Tube Socks, either new or gently used. Leave donations on or near the Refreshment Table. The September ask is for Towel and Sheet Sets, either new or gently used.

Core Value #3

It's easy to keep to like-minded people and communities. But the truth is, there are no strangers. There are no enemies. There are only people who are a part of us we do not yet know. The Kingdom of God is not a like-minded institution or building but an evolving, risky, relational reality of love where ALL are included and belong. The space between us is the sacred possible. We risk un-knowing connection!
